Like a small stone in a mosaic, each of us has held his own measure of importance in creating a completed picture of Langley High School. We have earned both praise and criticism under the challenging pressures of academic life. Striving for excellence, we have met success with pride and failure with grace. New faces have come into focus, and old friendships have been magnified. We have conformed and, at times rebelled, in the struggle for acceptance; and in the end, we have matured. Each individual has added to the character of the Saxon portrait.

Shire is presented as a portrayal of the year's activities. Each of us has contributed to its entirety. Hopefully, each printed page will revive a memory and each picture a moment. Within these covers lie happiness and spirit—the dimensions of Shire '67.

With a speech, a tree, and a pair of scissors, Langley High School has been dedicated to the purpose of molding the lives of future citizens and leaders of America.

The beauty and serenity of the Capital and the community have provided opportunity for quiet thought and restful relaxation.

Students have congregated at popular community Recreation Areas in order to enjoy a leisurely social life outside of school.

Within the school, the Saxons have settled into an academic atmosphere emphasizing self-expression.

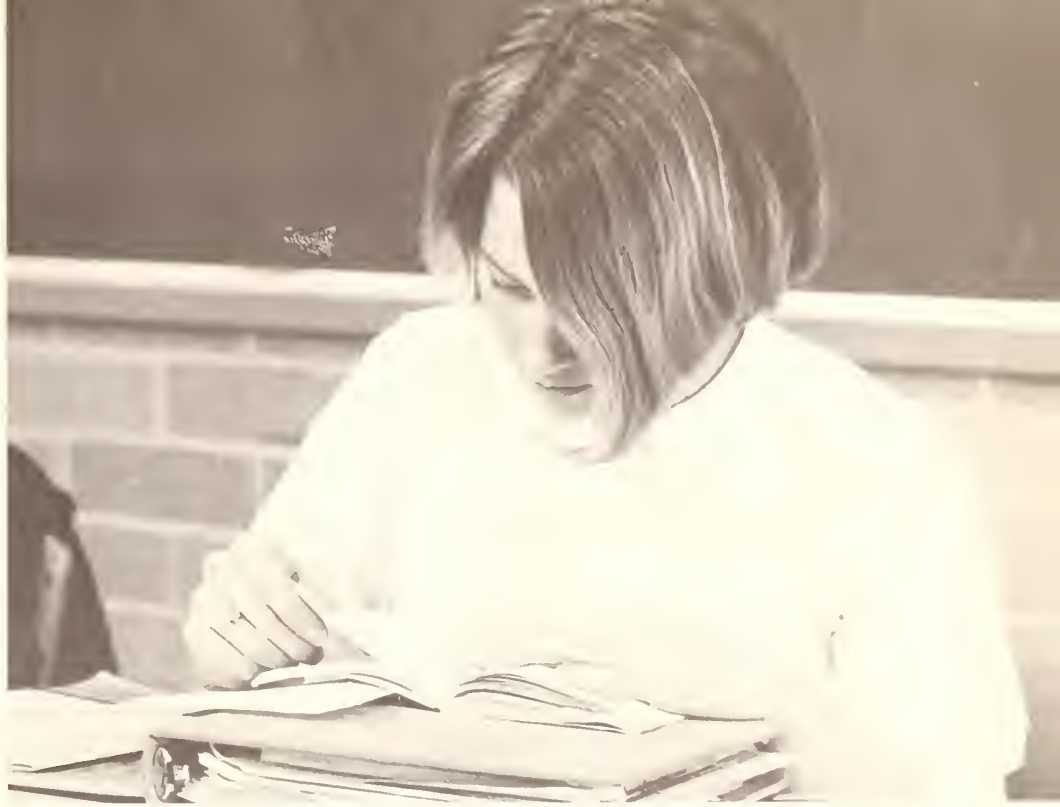

The image of dull, stereotyped teachers has vanished since students have met the members of the faculty.

Each member of the student body has some individual trait or talent that has added variety and distinction to Langley High School.

SENIOR CLASS

As Langley's first graduating class we felt the responsibility and the excitement of "traditionalizing" the Senior class. Our efforts secured parking privileges, line priority, reserved assembly seats and the unique Senior Bathroom, a coffee dance, an Ugly Man sock hop, and a Senior lounge were planned. Activities began with our rugged, but victorious, powderpuff game and ended with the Senior luncheon and graduation.

JUNIOR CLASS

With the responsibility of Langley's first Junior-Senior prom, the Junior class endeavored to make the dance novel and memorable. Determined to set a worthy precedent, we concentrated our efforts upon raising money by selling thousands of Tootsie Rolls and sponsoring activities, such as the faculty football game and sock hops. With the completion of this prom, we look forward to our own prom and the Senior privileges which we have earned.

Sophomore Class

The goal of this year's Sophomore class was to "Do something!" We planned to earn money for our treasury by sponsoring candy sales and sock hops. Hopefully, our successful "Links for lights" project promoted school spirit. Above all, this year we strove to make our Sweetheart Dance a success. By the end of the year, everyone throughout the school knew that the Sophomore class did "Do something!"

Dear Santa . . .

Freshman Class

We cautiously entered our first year of high school with determination to succeed in something, even it was mastering "The Art of Peeping." Actually, we did more than stick our heads around corners and whisper amidst Seniors. We made a wonderful start by producing undefeated Freshman football and basketball teams. Upperclassmen came to appreciate us more with our increasing support of the bake sales and dances.

Principal's Message

When I think back over our first two years as Langley High, we have indeed had a good start. Individually, each of us whether teacher or student has contributed in some way. Then too, collectively we have contributed.

Our beginning was accomplished through a team effort in which the participating individuals played a unique role. Successful as our efforts have been, the future of Langley will be determined by appropriate change.

Change is here and we will all be constantly challenged by it both as individuals and as a part of some team effort be it school, family, employment or whatever. He who would succeed must be willing and able to meet change head on and to cope with it effectively.

*Good luck
Thanks for all your help

RUDOLPH BUSH
Director of Guidance

The Administration of Langley High School is headed by four experienced and dedicated men. The principal, Mr. Elam K. Hertzler, received his AB at Eastern Mennonite College and his MA at Eastern Michigan University. He previously taught mathematics at McLean High School, was Assistant Principal for Administration at Madison High School and was Principal of Marshall High School. As Principal, he is responsible for supervising the entire operation of the school program, handling public relations, and long range planning.

The Assistant Principal for Administration, Colonel Wayne Bart, received his BS at West Point and his MS at the University of Virginia. He previously taught physics at Madison High School, a private school in Michigan, and Marshall High School, before he became the Assistant Principal for Administration at Langley. The Assistant Principal for Administration holds the responsibilities of acting as Principal in the Principal's absence and is specifically responsible for day-to-day administration and operation of the total school program.

The Assistant Principal for Instruction, Mr. Clinton DeBusk, received his BA at Bridgewater College and his MA at the University of Virginia. He was previously a teacher, a counselor and the Assistant Principal for Instruction at Marshall High School. His special responsibility lies in matters concerning the curriculum and instruction.

The Director of Guidance, Mr. Rudolph Bush, received his BA at Bridgewater College and his MEd at the University of Virginia. He previously taught at Burke Elementary and Longfellow Intermediate Schools and was a counselor at Marshall High School. The Director of Guidance is responsible, with the help of his staff, for the organization and supervision of guidance services for students, teachers, and parents.

English Department

Four years of English are a requirement for graduation from Langley High School. The English Department offers a comprehensive program in literature and composition. In addition to the traditional courses, the English Department, in conjunction with the Social Studies Department, offers three team teaching programs: World Civilization I, World Civilization II, and American Civilization in grades nine, ten, and eleven respectively. Furthermore, the Department offers courses in journalism, and public speaking. The faculty seeks to give the student a keen awareness of words and a facility for their use; to help him use language effectively in thinking, speaking, writing, listening, and reading; to help him enrich his whole cultural point of view, so that he may develop a greater insight into humanity and a heightened awareness of his own identity.

Mathematics Department

The Mathematics Department offers four years of academic mathematics and three years of more general mathematics. In addition, two first year college courses are offered—one in analysis, which includes such topics as symbolic logic, Boolean Algebra, and an introduction to theory of limits and the calculus; and an Advanced Placement course in calculus and analytic geometry. This year Langley participated with other Fairfax County high schools in an Interhigh Mathematics League sponsored by the Joint Board on Science Education of the Washington Academy of Sciences.

Language Department

The Foreign Language Department offers French and Spanish, levels one through five, and German and Latin, levels one through four. Langley's excellent language laboratory and tapes are especially useful at the first two levels in establishing an auidal and oral basis for understanding and speaking the foreign language. Since the faculty feels that language learning is in essence not only the learning of the spoken word but also of the habits, ways of thinking, and customs of the people, the culture of the foreign countries is emphasized through lectures and literature.

Social Studies Department

Three years of social studies, including United States and Virginia History, United States and Virginia Government, and either World Geography or World History are required for graduation from Langley High School. The department offers elective courses in Economics and Sociology, and, in conjunction with the English Department, World Civilization I and II and American Civilization. An attempt is made to utilize the talents of the faculty to best advantage by exchanging lectures in the more traditional courses and by team teaching in the "Civilization" courses.

Science Department

The Science Department offers an extensive program at all levels. In the ninth grade, the student may take Science 9, a basic course in chemistry and physics or Earth Science, an academic laboratory course of investigating relationships in the physical world. In the tenth grade, the department offers SM Biology and Green Biology, an academic course presenting ecological and behavioral aspects of the biological community. In the eleventh grade, students may take Chemistry, a laboratory course designed to develop unifying principles, and in the twelfth grade, P.S.S.C. Physics, in which they can deal directly with theories and laws through experimentation.

Fine Arts

The Music Department is divided into sections, Instrumental and Choral, and offers two academic courses, The History of Fine Arts, and Music Literature and Theory. Instrumental organizations include Symphonic Band, Reserve Band, Stage Band, Woodwind Quintet, Brass Sextet, and Clarinet Quartet. The Madrigal Singers, Concert Choir, Girls Chorus, and Boys Chorus comprise vocal study groups. The Fine Arts course compares the culture of Western Man from the Greco-Roman times to the present. Students having previous musical training may enroll in the Literature and Theory course.

The Art Department offers five levels of art. Art I provides a beginning in drawing, painting, sculpture and ceramics. Deeper exploration of all media is taught in Art II. Students receive advanced instruction in their areas of specialization in Art III and concentrate on developing individual projects in Art IV. Senior Art is offered to seniors interested in obtaining basic instruction in studio art and art history and appreciation.

Mr. Ward is head of the Drama Department. The drama students present several excellent productions each year.

In the Industrial Arts Department, General Shop I through III, Electronics I through III, Drafting, Engineering Drawing, and Architectural Drawing are offered as electives. Teaching facilities include two general shops and two unit shops on electronics and drafting. Students of the Industrial Art course study the organization, materials, occupations, processes and products of industry.

Typing I and II, Bookkeeping I, Shorthand I and II, and General Business comprise the Business Department. Electronic Labs facilitate the learning of shorthand and modern electric typewriters make typing easier.

The Home Economics Department includes Home Economics I through IV and Senior Home Economics. Beginning with a general study of home-making in Home Economics I, students may continue to a more advanced and involved study in Home Economics IV. Senior Home Economics is especially designed as a survey course for seniors.

The Health and Physical Education Department offers a program of training in team sports, physical training, health education, and driver education. All Langley students take physical education in the ninth and tenth grades and may take elective courses in the eleventh and twelfth years. The classroom phase of the program includes the study of such topics as mental health, body systems and diseases, safety, first aid, and personal health. The physical education faculty also directs the intramural program and varsity, junior varsity, and freshman intramural athletics.

Guidance and Library

The Guidance Department coordinates pupil personnel services for the school. The counselors interview students at least twice a year and more often according to individual needs. The department is responsible for parent-teacher conferences; student registration, orientation, counseling, and placement; and consultation with the faculty.

The Langley library contains over 12,000 volumes including an excellent reference section and multiple copies of works used frequently by students. Included among its materials is one of the largest collections of art slides and prints in any high school in the United States. In only two years the library has made great strides toward its goal of helping to meet the academic needs of both students and faculty at Langley High School.

Langley holds first annual concert series

The Langley Concert Series was the first classical music series sponsored by a Fairfax County school. The performances were held on Sunday afternoons in the Langley auditorium. Mr. Clinton DeBusk, Assistant Principal of Instruction at Langley and Chairman of the Concert Committee, stated, "Our foremost interest is to provide good music for our students." Appreciating this opportunity, students comprised over one-half of the seven hundred members of the audience attending the first concert. This first concert featured Ivan Romanenko, first violinist with the National Symphony Orchestra, and his accompanist, Mr. Harry McClure. Philippe Drevet, a French concert pianist, performed for the second concert.

The members of the Key and Keyette Clubs created a Dogpatch, U.S.A. in the girls' gym that rivaled last year's Sadie Hawkins in atmosphere and frivolity. Marrying Sam, portrayed by Mr. Ward, conducted marriages and divorces throughout the evening underneath the ladder church. Couples received rings and wedding certificates and were showered with rice. Decorations included a mass of paper patches and an "authentic" outhouse and jail. A cage housing "the only live kigmy in captivity" was hung next to the band platform. After a spontaneous round of the Bunny Hop or Whiplash, dancers refreshed themselves by sipping cider.

Two underclassmen prepare to "get married."

"The Imaginary Invalid"

The first big production on Langley's stage and Mr. Ward's first high school production was "The Imaginary Invalid," a French play written by Molière. A satire on doctors, the play described a hypochondriac and his "miraculous" recovery. The actors used the exaggerated acting style of the eighteenth century in a setting of the same time period. Hilarious prop problems arose concerning a goatee, a wig, and a hat. Trying to keep Hugh Helm from "falling apart" on stage created backstage chaos. Although a snow storm prevented one of the three scheduled performances of the play, "The Imaginary Invalid" was a financial success as well as a production success.

Christmas at Canterbury

Lampposts and lanterns entwined with ivy provided an Old English atmosphere for the second annual Christmas dance. Strains of Yuletide gaiety echoed within "Ye Old Tavard Inn" where refreshments were being served. Colorful streamers reaching from the ceiling created an enchanting atmosphere while festive couples danced to the reverberating sounds of Gary Scott and the Brookwoods. As a finishing touch, a town crier haughtily announced the queen and her court.

Stage Band Honored; Majorettes Establish Tradition

Langley's stage band was certainly one of the outstanding groups in the area. Composed of students who devote many hours after school to practice, the band was recognized for its accomplished style. In March the band was chosen one of the six best in the Middle Atlantic states and was asked to perform in a contest in Pittsburgh. It was a most rewarding year.

The first rule for each of Langley's five majorettes was "smile," whether they were marching down the football field, participating in the Halloween parade in Vienna, or twirling for the basketball game against Marshall. Each routine, especially the routines for the Cherry Blossom Parade and the March twirling contest, required hours of practice. In addition to twirling, they assisted Mr. Horan by ushering for concerts and performing daily duties.

Sweetheart Dance

The morning serial entitled "The World of Matilda Jones" and the pink and lace ticket hearts carried in boys' pockets were the harbingers of the Sweetheart Dance. During the night of the dance, couples stepped from sub-freezing outside temperatures into the warmth of "Pinkness." Pink strips of paper hearts and flowers were alternated along the gym walls, and clouds of pink balloons floated above the dance floor. Hostesses served pink lemonade and pink candy. After the regal crowning of Becky Smoot as Sweetheart Queen, dancers clapped in time with the music while Coach Price demonstrated his ability in "up-to-date" dancing.

First Annual Arts Festival Provides Cultural Outlet

On May 14, 1966, the Secretary of the Interior, the Honorable Stewart Udall, cut the ribbon for the dedication of Langley High School. After a speech given by Mr. Hertzler on "The Academic Challenge," Secretary Udall gave the keynote address and then culminated the dedication with a tree-planting ceremony.

In the afternoon Secretary Udall also opened and presided over the Festival of the Arts. Paintings by Langley High students and many prominent artists in the McLean area were displayed in classrooms. The Smithsonian Institution and the Department of the Interior respectively, loaned Langley High exhibits of a nineteenth century schoolhouse and an Indian village. The Asian Culture Exchange Foundation sponsored a display of hand-fashioned objects. Children were entertained by the production of "The Wizard of Oz" and a choral program. The Festival concluded with an evening program presenting the one-act play, "Box and Cox" and a concert by the Northern Virginia Stage Band.

The endless work of the SCA began with an informative orientation for new students. More plans were formulated to create the Christmas Dance, Links for Lights, paper drives and a student directory. House of Representatives Better communication between students and faculty was achieved through the efforts of the House of Representatives. Student apathy was combatted by stressing the ideas of the individual. House members encouraged student participation in the school government and activities through the use of a suggestion box.

Cabinet

The Cabinet members gained valuable experience while preparing to meet the problems of tomorrow. They realized that their jobs as advisors to the officers of the SCA, involved endless hours of work but they met these problems head on with determination.

Senate

The responsibilities encountered by the members of the Senate helped to increase their sense of leadership and to prepare them for future endeavors. While broadening their knowledge, these members promoted school unity and student participation in various activities. As well as encouraging student involvement, they represented their classes and its ideas.

Key-Keyette Slumber party, Hmmm!

The motto of Keyettes is "We Serve." This service applies to the school, the community, and the nation. During the year, the members sought projects which benefited themselves and others. White gloves and heels were the order of the day when Keyettes ushered at the orientation of new students, Back-to-School Night, and the Langley Concert Series. The brownie and cookie baking experts rushed to complete preparations for the successfully crazy Sadie Hawkins Dance. Keyettes again underwent the goeey agony of making and selling delicious taffy apples. Daffodils were sold on the first day of spring, and the Langley High faculty was honored during Teacher Appreciation Week. The "suffering" of Maid and Butler Day was even funnier than last year's. Keyettes made tentative plans to work at Southeast Neighborhood House and also to join with the Key Club in being foster parents to a lonely orphan.

The Key Club's motto is "We Build" for justice, liberty, democracy, and a better world. Several objectives of the club are to serve the school and community, to cooperate with the school principal, and to develop initiative and leadership. Members of the Key Club ushered for the orientation of new students and directed the parking of cars for many school activities. Having entered athletic contests with other Key Clubs, the boys were well conditioned for performing the "muscle work" for the Sadie Hawkins Dance. Selling refreshments at school athletic games and taking charge of ticket and soft drink concessions at Kiwanis entertainments challenged the persuasiveness of the club members. Members of the Key Club assumed the responsibility of checking school vandalism by forming the "Boys' Bathroom Battalion." Perhaps the pride of the club is their popular teen-age recreation center, the Subway.

The flag of Brazil flies beside Old Glory in recognition of the presence of Langley's first exchange student, Marco Silva

"Say 'Hi!' to Marco!" Small posters with this statement dotted the halls. The members of the American Field Service were welcoming Langley's first exchange student, Marco Silva. To show his gratitude, Marco showed students many various slides of his country, Brazil.

The main activity of the club was International Night, a fund-raising activity for future Langley exchange students. Tentative plans were made for a drive for used clothing and furniture to be sold at the Treasure Trove. The club members sponsored the Americans Abroad Program, a branch of the American Field Service, and also the School assembly presenting the panel of exchange students. As an added activity, the club members saw the movie, Doctor Zhivago.

International Relations Club

The International Relations Club attempts to encourage greater understanding of foreign countries, cultures, and peoples. By presenting speakers on international subjects and by sponsoring social activities involving club members and foreign students, the aim of the club is achieved.

Early in the school year, an "open house" was held in the cafeteria after school so that students might become acquainted with Langley's foreign students. The club gave a Pot Luck dinner consisting of foreign foods, and later the members again came together during a Christmas party. Two of the speakers this year were Miss Kennedy, who spoke informally about her visit to Greece and later showed slides, and Mr. Janney who thoroughly discussed the Central Intelligence Agency.

Spanish Honor Society

The Spanish Honor Society recognizes outstanding students on the basis of scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Further interest in the Spanish culture and language is promoted through such activities as attending the performances of Andre Segovia and Jose Greco, as well as trips to the Mexican Embassy and the showing of slides taken by Mrs. Briskin on her trip to Mexico. To conclude the year's varied activities, the Society went on a fun-filled "asado" to Great Falls Park.

French Club

The French Club, under the guidance of Mr. Harry Troop, had a very successful year. The group attended several French cultural activities, including the film, "Les Mains Sales," and the dramatic production, "Les Femmes Savantes." The group also experienced the marvels of French cuisine at Chez Odette Restaurant. After the French pianist, Philippe Drevet, appeared at Langley, members of the club attended a reception for him. In the highlight of the year, the French club held its annual Mardi Gras party.

Latin Club

Vice-president, Sally Johnson, awaits the start of Latin Club meeting

"No, Latini, Every first and third Friday of the month wasn't Friday the thirteenth, even though many of your meetings had to be suddenly postponed." But when the club members did meet, they were active. This year, the Langley Latins joined the Junior Classical League. While enjoying refreshments, the club members learned about Roman culture by viewing filmstrips and listening to "reports." The black arm bands worn on the Ides of March commemorated the death of Julius Caesar. In order to stimulate interest in the club, members sold Agnus stickers. Tentative plans were made to sell monthly calendars and class pins. As was characteristic of the Romans, the Latini enjoyed feasts and held a boisterous banquet. As Agnus fares, so fare the Latini. "Long live Agnus!"

German Club

Langley's German Club members enjoyed furthering their knowledge of German culture and customs. They listened to a German speaker and viewed slides of Germany. Participants of the progressive dinner and trip to the German restaurant sampled German cooking. During the Christmas party, members of the club enacted the play "Der Gute Tannebaum," or "The Good Christmas Tree." Afterward they went caroling and sang to a surprised and "curler-bedded" classmate. In February, the club members held a costume party to celebrate the traditional German "Faschingball," the celebration before Lent.

Future Teachers Club

"Buy a tootsie roll pop!" The crowd of students located at strategic exits from the school building struggle to buy a tootsie roll pop from a future teacher of America. These "teachers" joined the Future Teachers of America Club and began learning about the teaching profession. The club members explored various divisions of teaching, where and how teachers receive their training, and how to obtain scholarships. Guest speakers discussed several of these topics. A spring tea was held for all Fairfax County members of the Future Teachers of America. The money earned by selling tootsie roll pops was saved in order to buy a gift for the school.

Want to improve personal, family, and community living? Join the Future Homemakers of America! For its first year, the club based its activities upon two themes, "Individuality Counts" and "Jobs, Careers, and You." After hearing a speaker discuss Christmas decorations and gifts, the club members sponsored the homeroom door decoration contest for Christmas. Interested students consulted with a beautician about wigs and hairpieces, and with an informed speaker about full-time and part-time jobs. Two additional activities of the club were the Lady Langley contest and the Senior tea.

Pep Club

This year, Langley organized the Pep Club to stimulate school spirit. Members of the Club created the distinctive flaxen braids, gold tunic, and paper maché helmet worn by Langley's first mascot—"the only live Saxon in captivity." Booster buttons sold "like hot cakes", and confetti, also provided by the club, filled both the air and football stands. The Pep Club's Saxon warrior successfully led students in their vivacious display of school spirit . . . "Go, Saxons!"

Swim Club

The members of the Swim Club splashed every Saturday night at the Starlit Pool in Fairfax from 6:00 until 7:00. Some of the swimmers swam for pleasure and learned to avoid the low beam when diving. The remaining swimmers, under the direction of their coach, Betty Dungan, participated in swim meets against other school teams. Woodson High School was their first opponent, and even though Langley lost, their spirits were not dampened.

Shropshire, the Langley literary magazine, is printed twice yearly. This year the staff received so much good student material, that they printed a supplementary issue which was included in the January Scop. The 1965-66 issues received a high rating from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. This year's edition won a first place award, ranking it among the highest in the country in its category.

"You mean someone even bothered to turn THAT in?" questions Carol Knoblauch as Larry Miller ignores the whole thing.

Buie, co-editor-in-chief; Karen Olson, features editor.

In its second year of operations, Langley's newspaper, Scop, contained several innovations. The publication, which is issued ten times per year, was printed on regular newsprint for the first time. A second innovation was the publication of two special literary issues in conjunction with the staff of Shropshire. In honor of Langley's first graduating class, the staff distributed a senior edition of Scop at the end of the school year. A special feature of this year's paper was its Teen Series, an attempt to put into perspective the attitudes of the new generation. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Wayne S. Chester and the co-editorship of Nelson Johnson and Sarah Buie, Scop adequately and interestingly reported the news of Langley High School, 1966-1967. At the Columbia Scholastic Press Association Convention, Scop was awarded medalist honors, the highest award given by the association.

Shire

"The Individual" . . . From the time the theme was decided upon in mid-summer, 1966, to the last days before the final deadline in April, the staff of SHIRE prepared the 1967 edition of the yearbook. Surrounding the table harried yearbook workers struggled to crop pictures, write copy, draw and redraw layout, and contrive methods for convincing potential advertisers that Langley's publications were the best. There were moments of boredom, conflict, panic, jubilation, meditation, accomplishment. But climaxing the year was the long awaited day when SHIRE would be in the hands of the students and faculty of Langley High School.

Playing its first season against 1A Varsity competition, Langley's Varsity team met stiff opposition. Reinforced by the J.V. team, the combined forces unceasingly fought to win but encountered too many obstacles. The most rewarding game for coaches Price, Jacobs, Pence and King was against Mt. Vernon.

Langley's top scorer and leading pass receiver was Ric Rash. Phil Hatcher received the Saxon Award; Butch Kersey, the Most Valuable Player Award; Bill Robertson, the Outstanding Lineman Award; and Pete Carbone, the Outstanding Back Award. The captains of the 1966 team were Seniors Alex Honeycutt, Butch Kersey and Bill Robertson.

Freshman Football

The Freshman football team, coached by Mr. Anderlik, was the first undefeated team in Langley's history. Meeting their opponents with determination and spirit, they battled their way to victory. After six victories, the Freshmen agreed that the toughest opponent was O'Connell. To commemorate their triumphs, the coach ordered special felt footballs which say "Undefeated Fr. 1966." Congratulations, Freshmen!

The fifteen Varsity hockey team members, led by captain Linda Mutchler, fought hard to outplay their opponents. The only problem was that they almost always tied. Finally, they defeated Mount Vernon. The season ended with a one-win, one-loss, six-tie record.

Boasting only one loss, the Junior Varsity squad, under the supervision of Miss Webb, ended the year with five wins. The J.V. squad is looking forward to Varsity days.

With three weight classes unfilled the Langley grapplers had a challenging season. Coached by Mr. King, these matmen developed into a well-coordinated team. One accomplishment of the season was in the Marshall match when junior Tom Brubaker pinned state runner-up, Gary Mattozi. With Ken Summers, Woody Woodman and Tom Brubaker highlighting the season, the Varsity team gained recognition in the division.

Girls Varsity Basketball

Varsity Plods Along

The girls' Varsity basketball season brought disappointment along with brilliant victories. Surprising their Mt. Vernon adversaries, the girls went on to victory, 28 to 16. Under the coaching of Miss Johnson, the team elected as captain, Nancy Prothro, and co-captain, Debbie Lewis. To encourage the girls to make all their free throws, Miss Johnson devised a scheme so that every time a girl makes a free throw she receives a nickel and otherwise she forfeits one. Someone is bound to be rich at the end of the season! (The money will be used for a "victory" celebration at the end of the season.)

With Pat Poulton and Bobbi Ellin as the co-captains, these girls displayed fine sportsmanship and team work throughout the season.

Varsity Basketball

Varsity Had Tough Luck and Close Games

Bouncing their way through the season, the Varsity basketball team, under the coaching of Mr. Pence, practiced together daily after school to deliver the utmost performance. Although height was not the main asset, these boys had the will to win. Playing a rough schedule, they succumbed to several teams, yet always gave the opponent a tough time. Brad Sherman was the captain of the team.

Langley's first true J.V. basketball team started out the season on the right foot with a win over Falls Church. During the season, win or lose, they played many breath-taking games. Coach Price trained them with the hope that they would reinforce next year's Varsity squad. The final tally could never reflect the excitement of near victory and the tight competition with this year's adversaries.

Coach Tindall's daily training for fifty-five potential track stars included pacing a five-mile practice run, taking a quick shower, and massaging "shin-splints." Participants in field events such as shot put, high jump and broad jump, also practiced after school. The boys learned that good physical condition could only be achieved through long hours of regulated practice.

The Varsity Girl's Softball team, under the able instruction of Miss Webb, consisted of fourteen high-spirited girls, who, by combining determination and hard work produced the elements for a winning season.

Hustle and drive, sparked by Coach Harrelson were characteristic of the members of the J.V. softball team in practice as well as in every game. Their spirit, more than any other factor determined their success in competition. Even in the defeat, the girls "went down swinging."

Laura Watts and Margo Stickler share an anxious moment at a Saxon basketball game

Composed of thirteen vibrant girls, the 1966-67 cheerleading squad has done a considerable amount of work to boost the school spirit at Langley. Selling "beat signs" to students before the football and basketball games is just part of their tradition. Another activity is to make cardboard footballs and put them on the Varsity players lockers in an effort to raise their morale before games. Associated with their variety of "died green tennis shoes," these bubbling girls work hard to induce school spirit among the students of LHS. Guided by Miss Harrelson, the Varsity captain is Donna Froelich with Laura Watts as co-captain.

Baffled by the combining of the football teams, the J.V. girls were honored and excited about cheering for the second half of the remaining Varsity football games. Rooting the J.V. boys to victory, this squad, under the leadership of Jill White, deserves much credit. Their spirits are never dampened, even when the stands are not filled.

The Freshman cheerleaders, under the guidance of Miss Harrelson, contributed much to Langley's school spirit. By practicing good sportsmanship themselves, they encouraged the entire student body to boost their team in a manner benefitting a true Saxon. Boasting an undefeated season, the freshman cheerleaders were the women behind the great men.

great fun all except Anyway have as well as won't see you
Good Luck
Love ya,
Dana

of exam great summer senior

Diane,
It's been really good having you sit in front of Judy & me in Biology - and also get the answers so fast & hope you have good luck and a happy summer.
Susan Seger

Diane,
It's been a lot of fun knowing you. Best Wishes always and have fun during your senior year.
